Do power purchase agreements include embedded leases?

Accounting questions have arisen in connection with power purchase agreements (PPAs) that give the off-taker rights over the electric output of a renewable-generating facility and the storage capability of a paired BESS. The accounting for such arrangements can be complex and may include the existence of embedded leases.

What is a battery energy storage system?

Battery energy storage systems (BESSs) allow a company to solve problems related to energy delivery by maximizing the use of renewable electricity and increasing the reliability of otherwise intermittent generation sources.

Should you buy a new battery if a car is resale?

You get an assurance or service type warranties. Leaving this, when a car is put on a resale, car is valued and people check for battery condition. They are satisfied if the battery is new and you can purchase it for low price. This can be treated as goodwill from bargain purchase (not in reality). Again, Few points I noticed:

What if a T&D Company has a "wires only" battery efficiency and self-discharge?

In the case of a "wires only" T&D company that owns a battery integrated into their system, the "losses" associated with BESS roundtrip charge efficiency and self-discharge would be added as a component of the company's scope 2 emissions resulting from T&D losses from power transmitted or distributed to an end-user.
